DETAILED ACTION

Request for Continued Examination (RCE)

The RCE filed on January 5, 2009 has been processed. A non-final follows.

112-6th Paragraph

A claim limitation will be presumed to invoke 35 U.S.C. 112, sixth paragraph, if it meets the following 3-prong analysis:

- (A) the claim limitations must use the phrase "means for" or "step for;"
- (B) the "means for" or "step for" must be modified by functional language; and
- (C) the phrase "means for" or "step for" must not be modified by sufficient structure, material, or acts for achieving the specified function.

Claims 7-9 and 11-12 invoked 112-6th paragraph. The three prongs have been met.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-6, 13-14, 16-18 and 50-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 1-6, 13-14, and 50-54 recite a method. Based on Supreme Court precedent, a proper process must be tied to another statutory class or transform underlying subject matter to a different state or thing (Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. 175, 184 (1981); Parker v. Flook, 437 U.S. 584, 588 n.9 (1978); Gottschalk v. Benson, 409 U.S. 63, 70 (1972); Cochrane v. Deener, 94 U.S. 780,787-88 (1876)). Since neither of these requirements is met by the claim, the method is not considered a patent eligible process under 35 U.S.C. 101. To qualify as a statutory process, the claim should positively recite the other statutory class to which it is tied, for example by identifying the apparatus that accomplished the method steps or positively reciting the subject matter that is being transformed, for example by identifying the material that is being changed to a different state.

Claims 16-18 recite a system. The system claims must include hardware limitations to be considered statutory.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-18 and 50-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hibbert (2006/0074793) in view of Schwartz (2004/0083614).

Hibbert discloses the invention substantially as claimed, as set forth in the previous Office Action. Hibbert further discloses the first set of loan data being received prior to underwriting and closing of the mortgage loan (para-101--credit data is validate to determine if there is missing or invalid data prior to underwriting and closing) and the comparison logic using a set of computer-implemented business rules to identify at least one difference between the first set of data and the second set of data in a group of material terms, wherein the business rules define the group of material terms; and processing the second set of loan data using the underwriting logic responsive to identifying the at least one difference between the first set of loan data and the second set of loan data (para.101-108---the system compares the information for material terms---material terms may be any term that is detrimental to the execution of the contract-- and makes recommendation on whether to proceed).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed January 5, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant argues that Hibbert does not disclose the first set of loan data being received prior to underwriting and closing of the mortgage or the comparison logic using a set of computer-implemented business rules to identify at least one difference between the first set of data and the second set of data in a group of material terms, wherein the business rules define the group of material terms; and processing the second set of loan data using the underwriting logic responsive to identifying the at least one difference between the first set of loan data and the second set of loan data. In response, Hibbert discloses the first set of loan data being received prior to underwriting and closing of the mortgage loan (para-101--credit data is validate to determine if there is missing or invalid data prior to underwriting and closing) and the comparison logic using a set of computer-implemented business rules to identify at least one difference between the first set of data and the second set of data in a group of material terms, wherein the business rules define the group of material terms; and processing the second set of loan data using the underwriting logic responsive to identifying the at least one difference between the first set of loan data and the second set of loan data (para.101-108---the system compares the information for material terms—material terms may be any term that is detrimental to the execution of the contract—and makes recommendation on whether to proceed).
